IMI Fields Annual Medicaid MCO Survey Instrument for Medicaid Health Plans

The Institute for Medicaid Innovation (IMI) recently fielded its seventh annual Medicaid Managed Care Organization (MCO) survey instrument.

The one-of-a-kind, national survey is funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and provides longitudinal insights into emerging trends and best practices among Medicaid health plans.

This year, the survey instrument features an in-depth look at how health plans are incorporating sexual orientation and gender identity (SOGI), transgender health care, gender-affirming services, and other relevant issues into their coverage.

If you work at a Medicaid health plan, we look forward to your participation!

Community Power Building

Midwifery in Medicaid Business Case Learning Series Continues

IMI recently held the 11th session in this learning series, which is funded by the Skyline Foundation. The panel featured Dr. Nikia Grayson and her colleague Sandra Bland of CHOICES Center for Reproductive Health, Claudia Jennings of Primary Maternity Care, and Leseliey Welch, co-founder of Birth Detroit and Birth Center Equity. The series is designed to increase understanding of Medicaid payment structures, including provider payment from Medicaid agencies and managed care organizations, and how to research factors relevant to a local market.

Participants are primarily Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) midwives and students who are learning how they can maximize Medicaid reimbursement to support the sustainability of midwifery services and build business cases to expand access to midwifery care in their communities. The series builds upon earlier work, including the Essential Elements for a Maternal Health Initiative Business Case.
